مراجعة الصف الثامن – Grade 8 Revision – Islamic Studies

Islamic Rulings: Prayers for certain purposes

Topics: Surah Ya-Sin (1–12) – The people of the city (13–19) – The story of the believer (20–32) – Belief in divine decree (Al-Qadr) – Sincerity – Prayers for certain purposes (eclipse, rain, Istikharah).
Memorisation: Surah Ya-Sin (1–25).

1. Match:

Istikharah	Asking Allah to guide you to what is best through a two-rak‘ah prayer and du‘a
Takbirat al-Ihram	Saying “Allahu Akbar” to begin the prayer
Salat al-Istisqa’	The prayer asking Allah for rain

2. Write the method of Istikharah prayer.

> Pray two voluntary rak‘ahs (not obligatory ones), then say the du‘a of Istikharah, mention your matter, and trust Allah’s choice.

3. In what matters can Istikharah be prayed?

> In permissible matters where you are unsure, such as choosing a school, job or travel. Not for obligatory acts (like prayer) or forbidden acts.

4. Write the similarities between the rain prayer and the Eid prayer.

> Both are two rak‘ahs prayed in congregation in the open prayer area, without adhan or iqamah, with loud recitation and a khutbah.

5. Which prayer has two ruku‘ in every rak‘ah?

● The eclipse prayer ○ The rain prayer ○ Istikharah

Islamic Belief: Divine decree and predestination

1. Define Al-Qadr.

> Allah’s knowledge of everything before it happens, His writing of it, and creating it according to His wisdom.

2. Put the six pillars of Iman in order:

> Allah Angels Books Messengers Last Day Al-Qadr

3. Write some benefits of believing in Al-Qadr.

> Peace of mind, no despair over what is missed, no arrogance in success, patience in hardship and hard work with trust in Allah.

4. How can du‘a change our destiny if health, wealth and lifespan are predestined?

> Du‘a is itself part of Allah’s decree; the Prophet ﷺ said “Nothing repels decree except du‘a.” Allah may write a good result because of the du‘a.

5. Believing in Al-Qadr means we stop working and wait. False ✗

We take the means and trust Allah.

Divine Revelation: Surah Ya-Sin (1–32)

1. The Qur’an is a mercy for all humanity. Explain.

> It guides people to the truth, brings happiness in this life and the Hereafter, and teaches justice and good manners.

2. Write some worldly obstacles that stop people from guidance and how to deal with them.

> Arrogance, blind following, bad friends and love of the world. We deal with them by humility, thinking, good friends and remembering the Hereafter.

3. Recall the story of the people of the city.

> Allah sent two messengers, then strengthened them with a third. The people denied them, said they were only humans, felt evil omens from them and threatened to stone them.

4. Highlight two positive aspects of the messengers’ approach.

> Patience and gentle reminding; teamwork; clear message without force.

5. Summarise the story of the believer (verses 20–32).

> A man came running from the far end of the city, told his people to follow the messengers who ask no reward; they killed him and he entered Paradise, wishing his people knew how Allah forgave him.

6. The believer in Surah Ya-Sin came from:

● The farthest end of the city ○ The palace ○ Another country

Islamic Values: Sincerity (Ikhlas)

1. How does showing off (riya’) affect our worship?

> It ruins the reward of the deed because it is done for people, not for Allah.

2. Write a Hadith or verse about sincerity.

> “Actions are only by intentions, and everyone will have what he intended.” (Bukhari and Muslim)

3. Mention indicators of sincerity.

> Praise and blame are the same to him; he hides his good deeds; he hurries to do good.

4. Write ways to acquire sincerity.

> Checking oneself, fearing Allah, many du‘a, hiding good deeds, and remembering the reward of the sincere.
